1. Relationship Outlook

The relationship outlook for Aarav Sharma and Ananya Verma is favourable, with a strong foundation for mutual compatibility and sustained understanding. The overall Ashtakoot result is high, and the strongest areas include Graha Maitri, Gana, Nadi, Bhakoot and Vashya. This suggests good potential for cooperation, mental rapport, adaptability and the ability to understand one another's basic ways of relating.

The main work lies in handling differences in emotional rhythm, instinctive reactions and personal preferences. These are not indications of a fixed negative outcome. They suggest that patience, clear communication and respect for individual styles will be important in keeping the connection balanced.

2. Compatibility Snapshot

The Ashtakoot total is 32.5 out of 36, which indicates a strong overall compatibility pattern in the supplied evidence. Full birth details for both Aarav and Ananya were available and used.

The strongest results are in Nadi, Gana, Graha Maitri, Bhakoot and Vashya. Tara is moderate rather than complete, and Yoni shows some scope for adjustment in instinctive compatibility. The Bhakoot pattern is recorded as Nav Pancham, but it is cancelled in the supplied evidence and receives the full score.

3. Koota-Wise Compatibility Evidence

Varna: 1 out of 1. Both have the same recorded Varna, supporting broadly similar principles and a workable approach to mutual respect.

Vashya: 2 out of 2. Both are placed in the Nara group, indicating good potential for cooperation, responsiveness and the ability to function together as equals.

Tara: 1.5 out of 3. This is a partial result, suggesting that emotional rhythm, timing of reactions or the way support is exchanged may sometimes require additional awareness. Consistency and reassurance can help.

Yoni: 2 out of 4. The recorded Yoni combination is Vyaghra for Ananya and Simha for Aarav. This points to some differences in instinctive style, personal space, affection or expectations of closeness. Respectful communication about comfort levels and preferences is useful.

Graha Maitri: 5 out of 5. Ananya's recorded planetary lord is Venus and Aarav's is Saturn, with a full score. This supports mental rapport, the capacity to appreciate one another's perspectives and a constructive basis for friendship within the relationship.

Gana: 6 out of 6. Both are recorded as Rakshasa Gana, giving a full result. This can support recognition of each other's intensity, independence and strong individuality, provided neither person treats firmness or directness as a personal attack.

Bhakoot: 7 out of 7. The recorded pattern is Nav Pancham, and it is cancelled in the supplied evidence. The full score supports the broader compatibility assessment rather than indicating an unresolved Bhakoot concern.

Nadi: 8 out of 8. Ananya is recorded as Antya Nadi and Aarav as Aadi Nadi, producing a full result. This supports complementary patterns in the compatibility framework and removes a major area of concern within the Ashtakoot assessment.

4. Emotional & Relationship Dynamics

The full Gana result suggests that both people may be capable of understanding strong personalities, independence and direct expression. The full Graha Maitri result adds a constructive mental and conversational foundation, making friendship, discussion and mutual perspective-taking important strengths.

The partial Tara result indicates that the two may not always process situations at the same pace or respond in exactly the same way. The Yoni result also suggests differences in instinctive closeness, preferences or personal boundaries. These findings do not establish what either person feels or intends; they describe areas where conscious communication can reduce misunderstanding.

A healthy dynamic would allow both Aarav and Ananya to express needs directly, take space without creating unnecessary alarm and return to discussions after emotions have settled.

5. 5th & 7th House Context

For Aarav, the 5th house is Aquarius, ruled by Saturn. Saturn is placed in the 4th house in Capricorn, with the Moon occupying the 5th house. This connects romantic expression and emotional involvement with themes of security, familiarity, inner comfort and a serious or considered approach to affection. The Moon's presence makes emotional responsiveness an important part of Aarav's relationship experience, while Saturn's role favours steadiness and responsibility.

Aarav's 7th house is Aries, ruled by Mars. Mars is placed in the 6th house in Pisces, while Venus occupies the 7th house. This gives the partnership area a strong Venusian emphasis, supporting attraction, affection and appreciation of companionship. The 7th-house lord's placement suggests that practical matters, everyday routines and the handling of disagreements may require attention. Problems are best addressed through cooperation rather than competition.

These are Aarav's own 5th- and 7th-house indicators and should not be treated as Ananya's house placements.

6. Strengths in the Connection

- The 32.5 out of 36 Ashtakoot result provides a strong overall compatibility foundation.
- Full Graha Maitri supports constructive conversation, mental understanding and the possibility of friendship within the relationship.
- Full Gana suggests that both people may be able to recognise and accommodate intensity, independence and strong individuality.
- Full Vashya supports cooperation and responsiveness between the two.
- Full Nadi and the cancelled Bhakoot concern strengthen the overall traditional compatibility picture.
- Aarav's Venus in the 7th house supports the importance of affection, companionship and relationship harmony in the partnership area.

7. Areas Requiring Attention

- Tara at 1.5 out of 3 suggests that timing, emotional pacing or patterns of support may need conscious adjustment.
- Yoni at 2 out of 4 points to differences in instinctive preferences, closeness, personal space or expressions of affection.
- Aarav's 7th-house lord Mars in the 6th house in Pisces highlights the need to handle routine responsibilities and disagreements carefully.
- Strong individuality on both sides can be an asset, but it may become difficult if directness turns into defensiveness or if neither person makes room for the other's approach.
- Expectations about commitment, communication frequency, finances, family responsibilities and personal boundaries should be discussed explicitly rather than assumed.

8. Current Dasha Context

Aarav is in Mercury Mahadasha with Mercury Antardasha from 01/07/2025 to 28/11/2027. As interpretive context, this period can place emphasis on communication, analysis, practical decisions and the way information is exchanged. It is useful for clarifying expectations and avoiding assumptions, but it can also make overthinking or excessive discussion a concern if conversations lose emotional warmth.

The upcoming Mercury–Ketu period runs from 28/11/2027 to 24/11/2028. This can be used as a reminder to distinguish essential relationship matters from unnecessary mental confusion and to maintain clarity when priorities change.

The following Mercury–Venus period runs from 24/11/2028 to 25/09/2031. Venus is especially relevant to relationship themes in Aarav's chart because it occupies his 7th house, so this period may symbolically emphasise affection, harmony, values and partnership preferences. These dasha indications are context only and do not determine specific relationship events.

9. Practical Relationship Guidance

- Schedule calm conversations about expectations instead of waiting for disagreements to force the discussion.
- Treat differences in closeness, personal space and communication style as topics for negotiation, not proof of incompatibility.
- When conflict arises, focus on the specific practical issue and avoid bringing unrelated past matters into the conversation.
- Build shared routines while preserving individual interests and autonomy.
- Use direct but considerate language, especially when discussing affection, family involvement, responsibilities and long-term priorities.
- Revisit important agreements periodically, since clarity may need to be renewed as circumstances change.
- Let decisions be guided by lived behaviour, mutual respect and honest communication alongside the astrological indications.

10. Summary

Aarav and Ananya show a strong traditional compatibility foundation, with 32.5 out of 36 and full results in several major kootas. Mental rapport, cooperation, individuality and complementary compatibility factors are the principal strengths. The areas needing care are emotional pacing, instinctive preferences, personal boundaries and the handling of practical disagreements. With patient communication and realistic expectations, the evidence supports a constructive relationship outlook without making the future deterministic.

Suggested Next Steps

- 1 Discuss expectations openly and regularly.
- 2 Allow different emotional and communication styles without turning differences into personal criticism.
- 3 Use calm problem-solving when practical or day-to-day disagreements arise.

This report combines astrology-based compatibility evidence with interpretive relationship guidance. It does not reveal or predict another person's private thoughts, feelings, intentions, fidelity, or future actions, and it does not guarantee marriage, reconciliation, separation, or breakup. Important relationship decisions should be based on your real circumstances and communication with the person involved.
